

HOT PEPPERS

Capsicum species. Hot peppers are grown the world over and prized for the heat-delivering power of the capsaicin stored in their seeds, their unique flavor and their health enhancing qualities. SHU refers to Scoville Heat Units, with a bell pepper at 0 and pure capsaicin at around 15,000,000. Peppers grown in northern climates such as Wisconsin tend to be less hot than those grown in the south. Plant in a well drained, sunny location after any danger of frost.
